Elecnor acquires Jomar Seguridad, the fire prevention specialist company

Madrid, 11 May 2012.- Elecnor has reached an agreement to acquire Jomar Seguridad, a company which specialises in maintenance services, projects and installations for extinguishing and detecting fires.

Jomar Seguridad carries out its activity throughout Spain, particularly in the Autonomous Communities of Madrid and Castilla-La Mancha. Its maintenance activities represent around 75% of its sales figures, and installations account for the other 25%.

The diversification of its portfolio of clients is noteworthy, consisting of 3,600 references, with particular impact in the financial and residential sectors.

Thanks to this acquisition, Elecnor will strengthen its position in the maintenance area in two aspects: on the one hand, by the entrance of new customers and, on the other hand, by increasing the range of services that it can offer to the companies and associations for which it already works.

About Elecnor

Elecnor develops infrastructure, renewable energy and new technology projects. It employs 11,000 people and is present in more than 20 countries.
